Supporting the FE leaders of tomorrow

In line with our current jobs.ac.uk mission, we are providing specialist careers advice to proactively promote the benefits of teaching and working in FE to attract new talent to the sector.

Why we've launched fe.jobs.ac.uk

Like you, we understand the unique challenges currently facing the sector and the need to place the right people in the right roles to help UK further education truly excel.

After all, we've been advertising jobs for FE colleges since 1998. In fact, our long-standing recruitment service on jobs.ac.uk is already trusted by 287 FE colleges and over 77,000 FE jobseekers*, so as part of our commitment to the sector, we launched fe.jobs.ac.uk as a dedicated new home for careers in further education.

Our ethos is different too. University owned, fe.jobs.ac.uk was developed with the single objective of providing a more cost effective, high-quality recruitment media for the further education sector.

And because we're from the sector, we're the only FE job board with the highly trusted 'ac.uk' domain – demonstrating our heritage, rich-sector knowledge and values-based commitment to making UK education world-class.
