

ROBINSON COLLEGE

COLLEGE LECTURER IN MODERN LANGUAGES (1.0 FTE)

(TEMPORARY COVER – ONE YEAR FIXED TERM)

Robinson College invites applications for a one-year fixed term College Lectureship in Modern Languages with effect from 1 September 2018.

The post-holder will be expected to teach a range of scheduled papers within the college (and other colleges, where necessary to fulfil contract hours). S/he will also play a full part in the administration of MML at Robinson. The post is designed to provide temporary cover for the Direction of Studies in MML in the College and for supervisions (small-group teaching) in papers within the undergraduate MML course.

The College has three Fellows in MML (French, Spanish, Slavonic Studies), and also benefits from teaching expertise in Italian and Portuguese. It admits 6-8 undergraduate students per year for MML and 1-2 for the joint degree in History and Modern Languages; they typically perform extremely well.

The successful candidate will be willing to teach a range of papers within the MML Tripos. Applications would be particularly welcome from candidates able to teach SP1 and other papers in Hispanic culture.

As well as benefiting from the support facilities of the collegiate environment (including the availability of office space, IT support and SCR dining rights), the Lecturer will enjoy the company and encouragement of a lively and multidisciplinary academic Fellowship.

The College Lecturer is expected to teach for 12 hours a week during the teaching terms (the full eight weeks of the Michaelmas and Lent Terms, and the first four weeks of the Easter Term): this amounts to 240 hours of contact time. The post also requires the Lecturer to contribute to the process of undergraduate admissions, including interviews, and to take on substantial responsibility with regard to the Direction of Studies for MML in the College.

It is expected that candidates will already have, or be close to submitting, their PhD, and will be actively engaged in research in a field relevant to the post.

The pensionable stipend will be in the range £28,936 - £32,548, being Steps 38-42 on the University scale.

Informal enquiries about the post can be addressed to Dr. Joanna Page (email jep29@cam.ac.uk).

Applications, including a curriculum vitae, a statement of current research interests and teaching experience, should be sent to the Senior Tutor, Robinson College, Cambridge CB3 9AN or via e-mail to ks610@cam.ac.uk by 4 May 2018. Applicants are asked to arrange for two confidential references to be sent directly to the Senior Tutor by the same date.

Interviews will be held on Thursday 17 May.
